

The Session Law Firm Attorneys Help Businesses Avoid Environmental Liability

KANSAS CITY, MO. (April 26, 2010) – Two associates from The Session Law Firm, an environmental law firm based in Kansas City, Mo. will be speaking in sessions at the May 5th Kansas City Metropolitan Bar Association \(KCMBBA\) seminar on “How to Help New, Existing, and Expanding Businesses Avoid Environmental Liability.”

The KCMBBA seminar is targeted for attorneys who represent companies in corporate or real estate transactions or advise companies on how to grow and expand their business. Often these attorneys encounter environmental issues that could affect their clients. This seminar is designed to help these attorneys recognize and avoid potential environmental liabilities. Experienced environmental lawyers will also benefit from updates on recent developments in environmental law while those who are new to the practice of environmental law will receive a helpful introduction to key statutes and regulations.

Chris Wendelbo with The Session Law Firm will speak in a segment titled “Constructing a New Building or Facility.” Shawna Bligh will follow with a segment titled “Permitting and Reporting of Emissions and Releases.”
