The Session Law Firm Attorney to Speak at Conference for Solo and Small Firms

KANSAS CITY, MO. (May 25, 2010) – An associate from The Session Law Firm, an environmental law firm based in Kansas City, Mo., will present at the upcoming annual Missouri Bar Solo and Small Firm Conference.

Chris Wendelbo will present a session titled Environmental Due Diligence in Business and Real Estate Transactions. “Environmental due diligence is a critical component of any property transaction where potential environmental risks are a concern,” said Wendelbo. “I will guide attendees on how to minimize risks and protect their clients from liability by discussing the broad framework of potential environmental liability imposed by state and federal regulations on parties involved in commercial real estate deals, and discuss the latest trends and changes in requirements.”

The Missouri Bar Solo and Small Firm Conference is at the Lake of the Ozarks, Mo. on June 10-12, 2010. Attendees of the conference will sharpen their legal skills through a series of presentations, interact and exchange ideas with other solo and small firm lawyers across the state, as well as earn MCLE credits. Presentations will focus on technology changes and trends in the legal market to give solo and small firm attorneys an edge on how to take advantage of these opportunities and prosper. The comprehensive event features a wide variety of over 80 different programs, roundtable discussions and computer labs for attendees to choose from.
